Re: Developing and Editing Instructional Materials for Texas Home Learning

To whom it may concern:

Thank you for the opportunity to continue serving educators and students in Texas with high quality instructional materials for Texas Home Learning. We've been honored to partner with TEA in the early stages of THL and look forward to continuing our partnership.

Unfortunately, we are unable to bid on the latest Request for Developing and Editing Instructional Materials for Texas Home Learning at this time. However, we will gladly provide up to 10 hours per month of consulting from our senior leadership over the course of your continuous development process. And, if in the course of consulting there is a need for a new unit or a clear deliverable, we can scope out ad-hoc editing projects.

We hope to continue discussions to scope our ongoing consulting arrangement with TEA through orals or formal discussions as part of this solicitation.

We have enjoyed partnering with TEA in the development of high quality, TEKS aligned materials, and we are excited about the usage through CRIMSI pilots. We look forward to supporting implementations across the state and hope to continue our work with TEA in this next phase in an advisory capacity.

Sincerely,
